The business and management department invites students and other members of the WVPU community to the next faculty presentation of our Research Seminar Series. Please join us for Mr. David Gabauer's presentation on his current doctoral research. He will speak about how his academic trajectory brought him to this field, his interest in and passion for the subject, as well as the triumphs and setbacks he has experienced so far. As with all of our faculty presentations in this series, students should leave with a better understanding of the research process - its pitfalls, challenges, and rewards. Both undergraduate and graduate students are encouraged to attend. As Mr. Gabauer's research is on a topic which everyone can relate to - money and currency exchange - it promises to be an enriching lesson for all of us!
