Cryptocurrency's Big Players: How Interconnected Are They?

The business and management department invites students and other members of the WVPU community to the Fall 1 faculty presentation of our Research Seminar Series. Please join us for department head Dr. Nikolaos Antonakakis' presentation on his research into cryptocurrency. He will speak about how he became interested in cryptocurrency, the current market, as well as the triumphs and setbacks he has experienced so far in his research on the interconnectedness of the big players in cryptocurrency. As with all of our faculty presentations in this series, students should leave with a better understanding of the research process - its pitfalls, challenges, and rewards. Both undergraduate and graduate students are encouraged to attend.

Please RSVP by visiting this event's page on the Webster Vienna website.
